

The Department of Economics organized its 3rd episode of the bi-weekly Economics Department Brown Bag Seminar Series: Summer 2020 on 17 September 2020, Thursday, from 1:00 PM to 2:00 PM. In this series, faculty members of the department, as well as academicians and researchers outside NSU, present their research work to i) share research ideas and findings, ii) engage in scholarly discussion and get feedback, and most importantly iii) stimulate the research environment of the department in line with NSU vision and mission. The third speaker for this semester has been Dr. Nazrul Islam, Visiting Professor at the Department of Economics, presenting his paper titled, “Modelling influences of external factors on agricultural productivity: implications for Australian farms in a region with variable climate.” The event was moderated by Dr. Samiul Haque, Assistant Professor, Department of Economics, and hosted by Dr. Ahmed Tazmeen, Chairman, Department of Economics. The session generated a lively Q&A session. One may find the link to the video recording at:
