

NSU Pharma Camp provides healthcare services in Kushtia

The Department of Pharmaceutical Sciences of North South University organized a Pharma camp on December 12, 2025, in Char Bhabanipur and its surrounding areas in Kushtia, successfully providing essential primary healthcare services to underprivileged communities in this remote region. Your contribution of free over-the-counter medicines was invaluable for us to serve the residents of these villages.

This operation was conducted by our team of 19 members, including 14 pharmacy students from the Department of Pharmaceutical Sciences, supervised by faculty member Md. Adit Muktadir Pavel, Dr Ferdous Khan, and Dr Muhammad Mahfuzur Rahman. In addition, two physicians from Sono Hospital, Kushtia, provided vital on-site medical consultations to the patients. The medicines generously donated by Incepta Pharmaceuticals ensured that patients received immediate treatment for their ailments.

This collaboration allowed us to successfully bridge a critical healthcare gap in the community by serving people of all ages and genders. This initiative also provided crucial hands-on field experience for our students. Your support has been pivotal in making this social responsibility initiative a success.

We deeply appreciate Incepta Pharmaceuticals Ltd. for their commitment to community welfare and look forward to the possibility of collaborating on similar healthcare initiatives in the future.
